WEST SIDE EVENTS.

William Davis Shot in the Arm by Christopher Anthony---After Doing the Shooting He Disappeared.

Christopher Anthony shot William Davis in the left arm at 8.30 o'clock last evening while the two men were quarrelling in front of their dwelling quarelling in front of their dweining place on Kelser avenue. After the shooting Anthony fled over the fields, taking his revolver with him.

The shooting was due to a threat made by Anthony that he would shoot Davis' wife. Davis heard of the threat and last evening when Anthony left his home, which is the basement under the rooms occupied by Davis and his wife, Davis followed him to the gate. He questioned him goncerning his wife. Davis followed him to the gate. He questioned him goncerning the threat made against his wife's life, and Anthony became angry. He told Davis to keep away from him or he would shoot, and as he said it he drew something from his hip pecket. Davis thought the "something" was a hand-kerchief and he made for Anthony. Then Anthony blazed away at Davis. He fired four shots, the last one entering Davis' left arm between the elbow and shoulder and striking the bone. Anthony disappeared, while Davis' young son walked to the West Side police station, the distance of a mile, and informed Lieutenant Williams of the shooting. The lieutenant and Pa-of the excitement made the search for Anthony uneffective and the officers returned. He was arrested lat-

A DISTURBER ARRESTED. Certain lawless characters who have been amusing themselves by disturbing and annoying the congregation of the Hampton Street church, are likely to come to grief soon. The church re-cently applied to the authorities for the appointment of two special officers with power to enforce order in and about the city. One Sunday evening in September, while Officer Whiting was engaged discharging his duties, he was assaulted by one, Walter O'Connor, a man about 45 years old, living on Hampton street. A warrant for his arrest was issued but for two months O'Connor has escaped arrest. Last Tuesday night at 11 o'clock he was apprehended by one of the night patrol-men and was given a night's lodging in the West Side station house. Wednesday he was brought before Alder-man John and bound over to appear before the grand jury at the next session.

AMUSEMENTS.

This evening Primrose and West's big minstrel company will be at the Academy of Music. These famous minstrel entertainers have certainly introduced genuine minstrel revolution this season, and one of such a nature as will leave a deep mark upon the future attempts in that same direction.
This season the climax was reached when Primrose and West secured a combination of whites and blacks to when Primrose and West secured a combination of whites and blacks to amalgamate their talents so as to present the progress of minstrelsy, from its birth to the present day, in such a shape as to provide two separate and distinct performances during the same evening. This has hear accomplished evening. This has been accomplished with results that must be gratifying to Primrose & West as it is delightful to all lovers of wholesome minstrel en-tertainment. Every artist of note was pressed into service and each one individually contributes a fair portion toward the end aimed. There are three military bands, one a pickaninny band of unusual merit, under the leadergladden the ears of all lovers of music

Mr. Kerr, manager of the Frothing-ham, has a surprise in store for the public of Scranton tomorrow night. He has secured the International Grand Opera company, an organization of ex-ceptional merit, which will be a reve-lation to all lovers of music. The dra-matic prima-donna will be the beauti-ful and gifted Marie Senta, an American girl of French parentage, whom Mr. Leerburger met abroad while she was studying under the great Mar-chesi. She has a brilliant, melodious and exceedingly rich voice. Myrta French is known throughout the world as a beautiful collaratura singer. Last year while with Sousa she made an immense hit. The other prima-donna is Catherine Eland. She is an Ameri-can girl educated in Italy. Her voice is a pure soprano of high register and brilliant quality. The tenors of the company are Thomas McQueen and T Evans Green. The baritones are H. Winfred Goff, of the Royal Covent Garden theater, London, and Warwick Ganor, an Australian artist. The bassos are Ethan Allen and Barton Wells, both Americans. The chorus is composed of thirty-six of the best voices culled from the principal grand operas of New York city. Most of the chorus sung at the Metropolitan Opera house last season, and many of them have been under-studies for various principals. The operas to be given are
"Lucia di Lammermoor," tomorrow evening; "Bohemian Girl," Saturday matinee; "The Troubadour," Saturday eve-

Friday and Saturday nights and Sat-Friday and Saturday nights and Sat-urday afternoon Clara Willand's Vau-deville company will be seen at the Frothingham. The Wilkes-Barre Times on Tuesday had the following to say of the appearance of the company in that city: "It was not a very large audience that gathered at the Grand last evening to enjoy the high class." last evening to enjoy the high class vaudeville furnished by the Clara Wieland company, but it was a very delighted one. The specialties began with a good exhibition of sleight of hand by Horace Goldin, who pleased immensely. Richard Pitrot's series of impersentations probably expected the widest sonations probably covered the widest range and most extensive diversity of character yet exhibited here. Pitrot's work is finished and artistic and he made a good impression. Miss Wieland gave what the management is pleased to term an eccentric enter-tainment which included characterizations of international personages rolled into a cosmopolitan concert. She has a good voice and figure. The crowning features of the bill were the six kalosthenos studies of Zaeo, entitled: Aurora, rays of the northern light; Grammar or Ornament, ornate pose; Birth, life and transition of the butterfly; Sorceress of Athens in Katocrimson flames, whose beautiful blend-ing of delicate color was heightened by ingenious use of calciums from above the procenium, from the wing and surpassed anything of kind seen here."

A perusal of the programme for "The Fair Sex," show, which opens this af-ternoon at Davis' theater, leads one store for the patrons of Manager Davis popular house. There is an abundance of well known ability, only a few of whom, however, have appeared here. The attraction remains until Satur-
